That we can quite believe, but they could not, or did not, tell us what would be the production at 2s. 6d. 2s; or 1s. 6d. per ounce, at which it is evident mines can live. Without this information I think it is quite useless our entering into an academic discussion as to the probable future of silver. would therefore ask you not to discard the timehonoured Mexican dollar because it has declined from 4s. 6d to 2s, 10d. and still lower. Lask you to discard it because of want of fixity in value. In the Straits we are not a planting community; we are a trading community, and every trading community finds it of the utmost importance that their currency should be a fixed value. It is our business to receive the manufactures of 1 Europe and America and to distribute them over the Archipelago. It is also our business to re-2 ceive the produce of the Archipelage and to distribute them over Europe and America; and to enable us to carry on that business it is of the highest importance that the medium through which we settle our transactions should have some firity of value. know some gentlemen think that the lower exchange fulls the better. We are told that every fresh drop the dollar makes is a fresh wave of prosperity for the Settlements. But I like to deal in facts, and looking at the last two years luring the time we have enjoyed the blessing of a continually falling exchange I find that our Won by half a length. Time, 2 min. 15 4-5ths trade has gone from bad to worse. Two years ago we had the Chetty crisis. Well, by this time, in the ordinary course of events we should have ing, or, rather, this so-called blessing of a falling exchange we might have enticipated a rapid recovery; but instead of that we find this falling exchange has engendered a feeling of distinct, and that distrust led to the withdrawel of capital. Now if there is anything that a trading community wants it is a large supply of good money. We do not want a debased currency. The question then arises, O What would you put in the place of the dollar? should say, if India closes her mints, replace it with the rupes pure and simple. I take it that we shall not have time to enter upon that subject. To-day I think we had better confine curselves to the object for which the meeting was called, simply to decide if. in the event of India closing her mints, we should take steps to protect our currency. Now, gen. tlemen, there can be no doubt that as far as the real estate of Singapore and Penang is concerned it would be immensely benefited by having a fixed currency. The people who owned godowns would receive their rents in sterling, and in many ways we should be the gainers. But, of course, the godowns and the other rea estates in Singapore are the products of the past, but the present. It is useless doing anything for them if it is to injure the present trade of rency. I, therefore, beg of you, gentlemen, to taking the rupes instead of the dollar would in-I have the records of the Government Gazette The Chairman said-Gentlemen, the circular for 1:91.
